LC BICENTENNIAL COMMITTEE HOLDS MEETING ON OCT. 6

On Friday, October 6, the Library of Congress' Advisory Committee on its American Revolution Bicentennial Program met in the Wilson Room. Members of the Advisory Committee attending were: Jack P. Greene, Professor of History at the Johns Hopkins University; John Alden, James Duke Professor of History at Duke University; Cecilia Kenyon, Charles N. Clark Professor of Government at Smith College; Edmund S. Morgan, Sterling Professor of History at Yale University; Merrill Jensen, Vilas Research Professor of History at the University of Wisconsin; Aubrey C. Land, Research Professor of History at the University of Georgia; Lyman H. Butterfield, Editor of The Adams Papers; and Julian P. Boyd, Editor of The Papers of Thomas Jefferson. Mrs. Elizabeth E. Hamer, Assistant Librarian of Congress, presided.

Mrs. Hamer paid tribute to the late Adrienne Koch, Professor of History at the University of Maryland and member of the Advisory Committee from its beginning, for her contributions to the development of the Library's Bicentennial Program, her historical and analytical report on an exhibit for LC's James Madison Memorial Building, and her years of interest in and assistance to the Library. Mrs. Hamer distributed to members of the Committee a special issue of the Maryland Historian, prepared as a memorial to Professor Koch. The Advisory Committee passed a resolution recording its own appreciation for Professor Koch's role.

Members of the staff of the American Revolution Bicentennial Office reported on the progress of various Bicentennial projects: the multi-volume edition of Letters of the Delegates to the Continental Congress; the guides to the Library's holdings of manuscripts, prints and drawings, and maps of the Revolutionary period; the massive bibliography of the secondary literature of the period, Revolutionary America, 1763-1789; and the symposia series.

After a luncheon in the Whittall Pavilion, at which the Librarian of Congress, L. Quincy Mumford, welcomed the Advisory Committee, prospective and future projects were discussed. The meeting adjourned at 3:30 p.m.

SENATOR MATHIAS SALUTES LC BICENTENNIAL PROGRAM

Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr., one of the sponsors of the legislation which created the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission, paid tribute in the Congressional Record for October 13 (pp. S17914-6) to the Library's American Revolution Bicentennial Program. Saluting the Library for taking the lead in "investigating the intellectual and spiritual dimensions of the American Revolution and in making its collections and other resources known through a variety of activities and publications,"

Senator Mathias announced the program for the Library's second symposium, to be held next May 10 and 11, on "The Fundamental Testaments of the American Revolution." "No symposium, I believe," said the Senator, "could address itself to a more timely subject than an exploration of the meaning and the legacy of the fundamental documents of the Revolutionary period."

The Senator asked to have reprinted with his comments the Library's June 1970 report to the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission, entitled Liberty and Learning, the American Revolution Bicentennial Program of the Library of Congress.

PIANIST WILL ACCOMPANY JUILLIARD QUARTET NEXT WEEK

On Thursday and Friday evenings, November 2 and 3, the Gertrude Clarke Whittall Foundation in the Library of Congress will sponsor two concerts of chamber music by the Juilliard String Quartet, with Richard Goode on the piano. The program will include "Rondo for String Quartet" by Anton Webern; "Quartet in G Minor for Violin, Viola, Violoncello, and Piano, Op. 108" by Friedrich Kuhlau; and "Quartet in E Flat Major for Violin, Viola, Violoncello, and Piano, Op. 87" by Antonín Dvořák.

Members of the Quartet are Robert Mann and Earl Carlyss, violins; Samuel Rhodes, viola; and Claus Adam, violoncello.

Each concert will begin promptly at 8:30 p.m. in the Coolidge Auditorium of the Library. Tickets for both concerts will be distributed by Patrick Hayes, 1300 G St., N.W., beginning at 8:30 a.m., Monday, October 30. A service charge of 25 cents is placed on each ticket, and only two tickets are distributed to an individual. Telephone reservations may be made on Monday morning by calling 393-4463. Mail orders are not accepted.

The concert on Friday evening will be broadcast live by Station WETA-FM (90.9) and made available to stations in other cities through the Katie and Walter Louchheim Fund in the Library of Congress.

COMBINED FEDERAL CAMPAIGN GETS UNDERWAY AT LIBRARY

The 1973 Combined Federal Campaign in the National Capital area got underway on October 12. This campaign combines into a single effort the campaigns of the United Givers Fund, the American Red Cross, the National Health Agencies, and the International Service Agencies. The overall goal is $9,200,000, up by $400,000 over last year's quota. The Library's share is $75,887, an increase of $500 over last year's goal.

The Librarian will serve as Chairman of the Library's campaign and has appointed as Vice-Chairman Kimberly Dobbs, Executive Assistant in the Law Library. Mr. Dobbs will be assisted by Mary Ann Adams of the Librarian's Office, Harvey Joiner of the Administrative Department, Thomas Miller of the Congressional Research Service, Waldo Moore of the Copyright Office, Robert Nay of the Law Library, Peter de la Garza of the Processing Department, and James Trew of the Reference Department. About 190 staff members will serve as division chairman and key workers.

Some 40 Library staff members attended a kickoff rally on October 5 at the Department of Labor auditorium.

During the past weeks, a short film about the Campaign was shown to staff members in the Library's Main Building, the Taylor Street Annex, the Crystal Mall Annex, the Navy Yard Annex, and the Massachusetts Avenue Annex.

As in previous years, each staff member will be contacted personally; contributors are urged to use the payroll deduction plan which allows for deductions for a part or all of the year.

The drive helps more than 150 local, national and international health, welfare, and social service agencies meet their financial needs.

STAFF NEWS

RETIREMENT

Mrs. Anna B. Josko, Supervisor of the Searching Unit in the Descriptive Cataloging Division, retired on September 15, after working 15 years at the Library. Mrs. Josko, born in Rakša, Czechoslovakia, was educated in Hungarian Catholic schools and attended both the Masaryk and Komensky Universities. Caught in the upheavals surrounding World War II, she suffered the tribulations of political differences and finally escaped via Austria and Germany, arriving in the United States in July 1949.

With her late husband, Dr. Matej Josko, she devoted much time to the cause of freedom for her people. This included working with radio broadcasters, serving with various groups, and writing for the periodical Zpravodaj Rady svodobného Ceskoslovenska. She was co-author of the monograph Ceskoslovensko, (Washington, D.C., 1962).

She joined the staff of the Subject Cataloging Division at the Library in August 1957. In 1962 she transferred to the Preliminary Cataloging Section where she held progressively more responsible positions until she became Supervisor of the Searching Unit in 1968.

Mrs. Josko will make her home in Caracas, Venezuela.

Robert V. Shirley, Attorney in Charge of the Law Library in the Capitol, retired on September 29, after 20 years of Federal service. A native of Houston, Tex., Mr. Shirley received an M.B.A. degree from the University of Texas in 1928. In addition to graduate work on a doctoral degree at the University of Chicago and the University of Texas during the following years, he pursued the course of law and was admitted to the Texas and Federal bars.

Before coming to the Library, Mr. Shirley served on the faculties of the University of Texas, Kansas Wesleyan University, and the University of Maryland. In addition, he was Chief of Staff and Special Attorney to the U.S. Senate Foreign Relations Committee and Special Counsel to the Senate Special Committee on War Petroleum Shortages. As a member of the American Delegation to Mexico City, he worked on drafting the United States-Mexico Water Treaty for the Rio Grande and Colorado Rivers; he later participated in the drafting of the United Nations Charter at San Francisco and in various councils negotiating other treaties. He served as Special Assistant, Counsel, and Consultant to several Congressional committees as well as to the State Department.

Mr. Shirley was appointed to the position of Attorney in Charge of the Law Library in the Capitol on October 2, 1961. He plans to devote the next year to writing a history of the Law Library in the Capitol from 1789 to 1970.

AWARDS

Alois Paul Pincek, Special Police Force, was presented a 30-year Federal Service Award pin on October 12 by Fred E. Croxton, Director of the Administrative Department.

Mr. Pincek was born in Boleraz, Czechoslovakia, and immigrated to the United States in September 1938 where he settled in Muskegon, Mich. In February 1942 he enlisted in the U.S. Navy and served until March 1962. During his 20-year naval career, which included duty aboard submarines, carrier escort craft, minesweepers, destroyers, and aircraft carriers, he received 13 medals, among them the Asiatic Pacific Medal with seven stars and the Submarine Combat Pin.

Mr. Pincek joined the Library's Special Police Force in October 1962. Before coming to the Library he briefly served in a similar capacity at George Washington University.

STAFF ACTIVITIES

Jane Collins, Reference Librarian in the Science and Technology Division, visited the 24th annual Frankfurt Book Fair in Germany, held from September 28 through October 3. About 3,500 publishers from 60 countries exhibited 250,000 publications. A special exhibition "Books about Books" was shown in connection with the International Book Year 1972. "The Best-Designed Books of 1971" were also displayed, as well as a selection of international book posters.

Miss Collins spent several days in The Hague working on a project for the Library to develop jointly with the International Federation for Documentation (FID) and the National Federation of Abstracting and Indexing Services (NFAIS) a machine-readable

A KINGLY ERROR

Our apologies to the King! The somewhat unhappy husband of Caroline of Brunswick was King George IV, and not George V, as noted in the story about the exhibition, "Scandals–English and American," in last week's LC Information Bulletin. King George V who ruled Great Britain from 1910 to his death in 1936 was happily married to Mary of Teck and had six children.

inventory of the world's abstracting and indexing services.

Benjamin A. Custer, Chief of the Decimal Classification Division, together with John A. Humphry, President, and Richard B. Sealock, Executive Director of Forest Press, publishers of Dewey Decimal Classification, participated in a series of meetings on the classification system in various cities of England during the first week of October.

In addition to a conference with the (British) Library Association's Dewey Decimal Classification Committee, the three American visitors spoke at public meetings in Newcastle upon Tyne, Birmingham, and London. The purpose of the meetings was to assure British users of the Dewey Decimal Classification that the system's publishers and editors want and need their views so that the system may be developed in such a way as to be more useful to British as well as to American libraries. The meetings were organized and chaired by J. C. Downing, Assistant Editor of the British National Bibliography, who is chairman of the British Dewey Committee and also British representative to the Decimal Classification Editorial Policy Committee.

Frank Kurt Cylke, Executive Secretary of the Federal Library Committee and Chairman of the U.S. National Libraries Task Force, participated in the dedication program of the University of Denver's Penrose Library on October 9. Mr. Cylke's talk, "Cooperation Emanating from the Federal Libraries," was part of a seminar which included presentations by Allen Kent, University of Pittsburgh, "Campus-Based Information Systems;" Glyn Evans, Five Academic University Libraries of New York, "State and Regional Cooperation;" and Herman Liebaers, Director of the Royal Library of Belgium and President of the International Federation of Library Associations (IFLA), "International Cooperation."

Ralph E. Ellsworth, former Director of the University of Colorado Libraries, moderated the session titled "Penrose–A Link in the Chain."

Mary Jane Gibson, Assistant Head of the Bibliography and Reference Correspondence Section, GR&B, has compiled a survey on the development of bibliographical services in the United States during 1970. The compilation was published in the July issue of the Unesco bimonthly Bibliography, Documentation, Terminology (Paris) as part of its feature, "Bibliographical Services Throughout the World."

The report, submitted to Unesco in response to an annual questionnaire, discusses national institutions, interlibrary cooperation, and mechanization. It includes citations to indexes and abstracts of periodicals and bibliographies of government publications and dissertations, as well as to other bibliographies on a variety of topics ranging from area studies and children's literature to science and technology. An expanded version of this compilation appeared in the winter 1971 issue of RQ [see LC Information Bulletin, January 13, p. 15].

PERSONNEL CHANGES

CRS Appoints Three Specialists

The Congressional Research Service has appointed three new Senior Specialists. Wallace D. Bowman, Acting Chief of the Environmental Policy Division since June and former Assistant Chief, has been appointed Chief of the Division and Senior Specialist in Environmental Policy. Peter Henle, a recognized authority in the field of labor, fills the position of Senior Specialist in Labor Economics last held by Gustav Peck. Joseph A. Lieberman, has been appointed Senior Specialist in Environmental Policy, filling a position last held by Harry Perry.

A native of Jacksonville, Ill., Mr. Bowman received his B.A. and M.A. degrees in 1949 and 1952 respectively in the natural sciences and experimental biology from Washington University in St. Louis. He did further graduate work in wildlife management at Southern Illinois University, Carbondale. In 1955, he received an M.A. degree in conservation from Yale University. He also completed graduate work in the public administration of natural resources programs at the University of Michigan.

From 1953 to 1955 he worked as a researcher in the experimental psycho-acoustic laboratory at Washington University, performing acoustical studies for the Office of Naval Research. In 1956, he joined the staff of the United Fruit Company's research station at La Lima, Honduras. From 1957 to 1959, he served at the regional and county levels of environmental activities as a resources planner for the Washtenaw County (Michigan) Planning Commission at Ann Arbor where he was responsible for research and planning programs.

In 1959, Mr. Bowman joined the staff of the Conservation Foundation in New York City as Assistant Director of Research and in 1961 left to work in the Office of the Governor of Alaska. He returned to the Foundation in 1962 as Executive Officer and in that capacity maintained oversight and control over all Foundation research projects.

In 1965, he joined the staff of the United Nations as head of a reports evaluation unit for the U.N. Development Programme related to natural resources projects throughout the world.

He came to the Library in 1967 as a Specialist in Conservation and Natural Resources in the then Legislative Reference Service.

Mr. Bowman served during World War II in the Pacific Theater. He has participated in numerous professional conferences related to natural resources and environmental management. He is married and has three children.

Mr. Henle received his B.A. degree from Swarthmore College and his M.S. degree from American University.

Associated for 15 years with the American Federation of Labor and later the merged AFL-CIO, Mr. Henle served from 1955 to 1961 as Assistant Director of Research for the organization. In 1961 he went to the Department of Labor, serving as Chief Economist and Associate Commissioner of Labor Statistics in the Bureau of Labor Statistics from 1966 to 1971. In this capacity, he was responsible for the Bureau's programs of economic analysis, program planning and evaluation, and foreign labor conditions.

For the past year, Mr. Henle has been a Federal Executive Fellow at the Brookings Institution, on leave from his position as Economic Adviser to the Secretary of Labor. During this time he has written articles for publication on the operations of public and private retirement systems, the effectiveness of collective bargaining, and recent trends in the distribution of earned income.

Mr. Henle has contributed articles to several books, professional journals, and the Encyclopedia of the Social Sciences. He has provided expert testimony before several Congressional committees. In 1968, he received a Distinguished Achievement Award from the Department of Labor.

A native of Baltimore, Mr. Lieberman received his bachelor of engineering and doctor of engineering degrees in 1938 and 1941 respectively from the Johns Hopkins University.

He began his career as a junior engineer and Research Hydrologist with the U.S. Forest Service at the Southeastern Forest Experiment Station in Asheville, N.C.

From 1948 to 1968, Mr. Lieberman served with the Atomic Energy Commission, progressing from Sanitary Engineer, to Chief of the Environmental and Sanitary Engineering Branch, and finally to the position of Assistant Director for Nuclear Safety.

From 1968 to 1970, he was Assistant Administrator for Research and Development of the Environmental Health Service in the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. In 1970 he joined the staff of the Environmental Protection Agency, serving as Deputy Assistant Administrator for Radiation Programs, and most recently as Chairman of the EPA Energy Policy Committee.

During World War II, Mr. Lieberman served as an officer with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

He has lectured at a number of universities and has written some 35 published articles in hydrologic research, the environmental aspects of nuclear operations, and energy environment. He has provided expert testimony before Congressional committees, has served as a delegate to numerous international conferences, and served as a member of technical exchange delegations in his field. Upon completion of 30 years of Government service, he was nominated for a National Civil Service League Career Service Award. Mr. Lieberman and his wife live in Bethesda, Md.

ISO HOLDS BRIEFING, SEMINAR

The Library's Information Systems Office (ISO) sponsored the introductory discussion, "CICS:-2: Technical Briefing," as a function of the Automation Training Program on September 15. The discussion was conducted by Margaret Northam and Keith Donohue from the IBM Corporation, and was structured to introduce users to the new technical capabilities of Version 2 of CICS (Customer Information Control System).

On September 29, ISO sponsored an Automation Seminar on "Computers and People at the Boston Children's Museum," conducted by Richard Gardner of the Boston Children's Museum. The seminar presented the concepts of providing a "hands-on" computer center operation for use by the general public. Mr. Gardner discussed the use of the on-line computer system by an uncontrolled, non-homogenized user group as a function of the problems of interaction between an average, uninitiated user and highly sophisticated computer technology.
